PROJECT SPOTLIGHT

FDA Winchester Engineering Analytical Center (WEAC)

Because your work makes important projects like these possible

WEAC serves as the lead laboratory for medical device and radioanalytical testing; it is the only FDA facility that performs analyses of the Medical Device Program areas including device sterility and device safety. FDA is investing in a new WEAC facility advancing the nationwide Agency scientific infrastructure to better protect the American public. The project is scheduled for completion in the Fall of 2021.

MODERNA

Moderna Technology Center in Norwood added 237K square feet totaling 650K square feet for its expansion of commercial and clinical activities.

"Opening this new manufacturing facility in Massachusetts was important as it enables close collaboration with our development and research teams in Cambridge as we advance our mRNA platform and science. We are excited to continue to work with state and local partners, leverage the remarkable innovation and talent from the Massachusetts life sciences and technology sectors, and create new biopharma manufacturing roles as we work to develop new medicines for people with serious and life-threatening diseases." - Stephane Bancel, CEO of Moderna
